

TO JOIN THE BIG PARADE of breath-taking developments in bouncing radar waves off the moon, is the "giant" telescope titan which is expected to be ready for use in 1948 at the Mt. Palomar Observatory, San Diego, Calif. Dr. Irvin Geft, of the California Institute of Technology, and Bert A. Millikan, Nobel prize winner in physics, are shown beside a scale model of the world's largest telescope which aims to break all records for penetrating distance with the complete instrument weighs 500 tons and is housed in a ten story dome.

Giant of Palomar is so powerful if it were mounted on the moon, some 860 miles away, it would bring New York's Empire State Building within 25 miles.

DRAWING ABOVE gives a general idea of the great power of the Palomar telescope. Through the giant 200-inch eye of the telescope ever built, the moon will be literally in one's front window. As the sketch indicates, such an event—if mounted on the moon—would bring the Empire State Building within 25 miles.

S THE 200-INCH MIRROR now in the process of being made in the world's largest telescope on Mt. Palomar, Calif., Corning, N. Y., it has had many adventures. A special car was built to carry it to California and, in some special rail lines were laid to insure its safe transport to grind and polish and its size can be gathered by comparison with the man at left.

ARMY EXPERT TO BE AT LA RUE PARLEY TUESDAY

Business Men's Club To Take Up River Project

Special to The Star

LARUE, March 11.—Lt. Colonel Kibler, of the Cincinnati Flood Control Board, a section of the Army Engineers, will meet with the LaRue Business Men's association Tuesday night in a special session to discuss the local group's project of water control along the Scioto river.

Landowners and farmers in the affected area have also been invited to discuss the problem of river improvement, according to Rev. William Meyer, secretary of the association.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the LaRue business group was moved up from Thursday to have Lt. Col. Kibler attend.

A committee of business men and farmers have been studying river improvement for some time and planned to have a definite proposal ready to present at the time the Army representative comes.

"ANT EYE" DEBUT NEAR LEWIS DRAFTS DEMANDS FOR TUESDAY TALKS

Calls 250-Man Miners' Group Before Meeting Operators in Parley Tomorrow.

By The Associated Press John L. Lewis summoned his 250-man policy committee today to chart demands he will present to bitumous coal operators in negotiations opening tomorrow in Washington.

Lewis' AFL United Mine Workers union, representing 400,000 employees of the soft coal industry, already has taken legal preliminaries for a strike, should negotiations on a contract to replace the one expire April 1 fail.

A royalty on each ton of coal mined, which would be placed in the union welfare and hospitalization fund, was expected to be one of Lewis' chief demands. Also likely were proposals for a shorter work week, without a proportionate loss in earnings, and recognition of a UMW union for supervisory workers, including miners.

As labor disputes kept 757,000 workers idle, about half of them in General Motors plants and the electrical industry, a battle was shaping up for control of one of the country's most powerful unions, the CIO United Auto Workers.

Reuther Booms Seen

A well organized boom was underway for Walter Reuther as a candidate to succeed R. J. Thomas, who was expected to seek his seventh term as CIO-UAW president at the union's national convention in Atlantic City, N. J., March 23.

Both sides in the General Motors dispute charged last week that settlement of the 111-day strike was being delayed by "politics" in connection with the approaching union convention.

Reuther, General Motors strike leader and now a vice president of the union, has not announced himself as a candidate for Thomas' place, nor has he said he would not run, but he has the backing of 17 union local leaders, claiming to represent 250,000 members.

Declare UAW "United."

The high command of the Auto Workers asserted in a statement today that it is "united in its support of the General Motors strike and the GM strikers," and that it holds the corporation "solely responsible for continuance of the strike."

The statement, signed by Thomas, Reuther and Secretary-Treasurer George E. Addes, took notice of reported "personal differences" among the leaders following announcement that 17 unions would support Reuther.

"The top leadership of the UAW-CIO," said the statement, is united in its support of the GM strike and the GM strikers, regardless of any personal differences which may be reported in daily newspapers.

"We are unanimous in all sections now being taken to negotiate the settlement of the strike on a basis that gives equity and justice to the GM workers. We agree emphatically that the General Motors Corp. is solely responsible for continuing the strike through its refusal to accept the recommendations of the President of the United States and its refusal to arbitrate the issue.

"All of our decisions to date on strike issues and strike strategy have been unanimous."

The statement was given out as the union's GM strike negotiating committee met in a closed session with Thomas and Reuther.

This situation overshadowed the union's stalemate negotiations with GM, which take up again in Detroit this afternoon. The deadlock includes a number of issues, including the one-cent difference between the union's demands for a 19½ cents hourly pay raise, recommended by President Truman, and the corporation's offer of 18½ cents.

Other labor developments:

I. Members of San Francisco Machinists Lodge 68 voted to return to work in bay area shipyards, reopening March 18, but not to downtown machine-shops, and to secede from the Independent International Association of Machinists. The international had termed the 134 day stoppage by 7,000 Lodge 68 members "illegal and unsanctioned." The strike has idled 43,000 other workers, including AFL and CIO machinists who refused to cross Lodge 68's picket lines.

TIMKEN PICKET RUSH REPULSED

Second Attempt Fails as Officials Bicker Over Enforcing Injunction.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 11.—The second attempt in a week to crack a CIO-United Steelworkers of America picket line at the Timken Roller Bearing Co. plant here failed today as 200 pickets repulsed between 50 and 100 workers attempting to return to work on a 7 a. m. shift.

There was no violence. An estimated 250 workers gathered across the street shortly before 7 a. m. As the group of 50 to 100 started for the plant gate, the pickets massed in a body. Loudspeakers on police "squid" cars blared forth warnings against violence, and the return-to-work group retreated its steps.

A similar effort failed last Wednesday. The decision to try again was voted yesterday. It followed issuance of a temporary injunction limiting pickets to seven at each plant gate.

City Safety Director C. C. Cole said he understood "it is up to the sheriff's office" to see that the injunction order is carried out.

Franklin County Sheriff Jacob E. Sandusky declared, however, it was the city's responsibility "until I get an order from the court."

The Timken plant, employing some 4,000, has been strike-bound since Jan. 21 when workers went out with the "big steel" strike call.

The stoppage continues because of failure to negotiate a contract.

LAUSCHE IS IGNORED ON CIO-PAC SLATE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 11.—The Ohio CIO's Political Action Committee has approved Marvin C. Harrison's Democratic candidacy for U. S. Senator, but is giving the cold shoulder to Gov. Frank J. Lausche's re-election aspirations.

Failing to endorse a candidate for governor, the union group declared in a prepared statement yesterday that "none of the (ubernatorial) candidates had either a record or platform to create enthusiasm among progressive selection of Harrison, former state senator from Cuyahoga county, was accompanied by complimentary references to his opponents, Lt. Col. Stephen M. Young and Sen. James W. Huffmann.

"We certainly felt that the incumbent, Sen. James Huffman, and former Congressman Stephen Young were men of outstanding qualifications for the U. S. senate," the PAC statement said.

"However, it was the consensus that Harrison could defeat Bricker in 1948 and hence head off the reactionary interests in this country which saw the Senate seat as a shortcut for their darling to the White House."

These 10 endorsements were made from the 22 Ohio congressional districts (all are Democrats):

G. Andrews; Epp, First District; Francis Davis, Second; Edward Gardner, Third; Merle J. Bragg, Fourth; John Simon (of Hardin Co.), Eighth.

Walter Fisher, 14th; Michael J. Kirwan, 15th; Michael Feighan, 16th; Robert Croster, 20th, and Robert Crosson, 21st.

SENATE TO AID HOUSING BILL, BARKLEY SAYS

Predicts Restoration of Big Subsidies, Fight for All Original Features.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) said today the administration will fight to restore $600,000,000 in subsidies when housing legislation is considered by the Senate.

Barkley talked with reporters at the White House after congressional leaders conferred with President Truman. The house rejected subsidies on building materials and another key feature of the President's housing program—ceiling prices on old dwellings.

The government was busy also rushing final touches to a new order designed to slash commercial and industrial construction so that more homes can be built.

Barkley made clear that administration forces would attempt to revive all features of the original housing bill asked by Mr. Truman, but he said the major effort would be behind the subsidy payments.

The government's order on commercial type building was described by officials who have seen a preliminary draft as "drastic and far-reaching." It is scheduled for announcement soon.

These officials who asked that their names not be published, said the order will hold up construction of thousands of non-essential stores, office buildings and factories still in the blueprint stage.

But they predicted it will hit hardest at proposed roadhouses, night clubs, theaters and other amusement projects. These will not be banned entirely, but builders will have to show there is a community need for such recreational facilities.

The new order is being drawn up by the Civilian Production Administration and the National Housing Agency. They figure it will channel well over two-thirds of all building materials to residential construction.

"There's no alternative," said one official, "with the goal of 270,000 new homes during the next two years."

CIA reportedly is making the point that it lacks an adequate field staff to enforce a stop-construction order on projects already underway.

Housing officials estimated that upwards of $50,000,000 a week in labor and materials is being expended on non-residential building.

The new order, K was understood, also will have the effect of whittling down the number of homes which can be built to sell for more than $10,000.

On Capitol Hill, meanwhile, Senator Mead (D-N.Y.) said he and other senators "of like mind" will make a vigorous fight to restore price ceilings and subsidies which the house cut out of the administration's emergency housing bill.

Barkley expressed belief the wage-price policy will not need further major revision in replying to a reporter's point that there already have been two revisions of the original formula announced last August.

The stabilization chief said he believes "we are all going to be surprised at the limited number of price increases" which will result from the new wage price formula. He qualified this by saying it would depend on whether Congress renews stabilization controls.

Needs Cooperation

Barkley earlier said the new wage price policy was a "practical step toward a future of sustained prosperity."

He said the policy does not violate your right of free speech among yourselves.

"I do not hate the German people.

My policy in regard to dancing and social gatherings should indicate that fact to you, but I can't Officer Tells Troops Not To Criticize Soviet Union To German People.

WUERZBURG, Germany (UPI)—American troops in Wuerzburg were warned by their commanding officer today to refrain from criticizing the Soviet Union to the German people.

Lt. Col. Frank Ebey of Veneto, Calif., issued this order to his command, the 203rd Antiaircraft Battalion.

Ask for Vote

His statement was made after 26 Labor members had filed a motion calling on the house to go on record against unoffical pro-Soviet speech by Winston Churchill, British politician, relative to our ally, the Russian people.

He added that "the government had no previous knowledge of the contents of the speech. The British ambassador was not called upon to approve or disapprove the contents of the speech beforehand."

When asked by W. N. Warley, Laborite, if he would "make it clear that the government entirely disapproved of the tone and length of this mischievous speech," Attlee replied, "The speech was attacked by Pravda in Moscow today as advocating a British-American military alliance that would spell the end of the United Nations and the breakup of the British-American-Soviet wartime coalition."

Officers Practice Ended

"This practice must stop immediately."

The Soviet government is already aware that the policy of our government does not tolerate any disparaging remarks against our Allies to the German people. This does not violate your right of free speech among yourselves."

"I do not hate the German people. My policy in regard to dancing and social gatherings should indicate that fact to you, but I can't

FULL HOUSE SEEN FOR GOLDEN GLOVES OPENERS TONIGHT

First Battle Set for 8 P.M. In AAU Boxing Tournament

District Setup Attracts Fans from Nearby Areas; Reserve Seat Sale Soars.

Fan interest in the Golden Gloves district AAU boxing tournament is greater this year than any former year, officials of the Y's Men's Service Club, sponsor of the tournament, said today. With first elimination bouts scheduled for tonight at 8 p.m. over one third of all reserve seats are already sold. The sale at the gate is expected to result in a packed house.

Greatest advance sale on reserve seats in any former year was $100 while by Thursday of last week $400 had been received for this year's tournament. A great many requests for tickets have been received from out-of-towners, indicating that a good following of fans will support fighters from neighboring cities.

AAU Status Help

Recognition as the official AAU district tournament is credited with increasing both fan interest and the diversity of the fighters involved. Most fighters faithfully followed the two miles per day roadwork program and at the end of training Friday night looked trim and in better shape than any previous group of hopefuls.

The 93 contestants will weigh in tonight at 6 p.m. and be matched at that time. The number of bouts fought in any one weight classification will depend upon the number of entries with some weights limited to two or three contests and other more crowded divisions offering eight all three nights.

Semi-finals are scheduled for Wednesday and finals Friday.

WALTERS SHINES AS REDS HALT TIGERS

Bucky Steals Show in First Grapefruit Battle.

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., March 11.—The word went around the Cincinnati Reds' training camp today that Bucky Walters is moving back into the No. 1 spot on the Redlegs' mound staff.

The veteran right-hander, who compiled a 10-10 record with his sore arm last season, stole the show yesterday at the Reds' defeat of the Detroit Tigers, 3-1, in the first Grapefruit League game of the season for Bill McKechnie's charges.

Walters, southpaw Johnny Von-Merri and Preacher Joe Begas combined for a five-hit pitching job, but the 6,500 fans left the park lolling about Bucky's performance.

Walters made little effort to throw the ball past the world champions in tailing the first three innings, but when he retired, he had faced only 10 men, allowed two hits—one a bunt—and fanned three. He hit the corners with uncanny accuracy and was ahead of every batter.

"I'm just about convinced," said McKechnie, "that his arm is going to be all right and he will again prove to be a consistent winner for us."

However, he isn't counting on him to work more than once every five or six days. Said McKechnie: "Bucky has reached the age (34) come April 10) where he'll need more rest, much more rest between starts."

The Tigers got the rest of their hits and the unearned run off

WYANDOT CO. FRAUD TRIAL NEAR CLOSE

Special to The Star
UPPER SANDUSKY, March 11—State and defense attorneys continued their arguments to the jury today as the fraud trial of George T. Currier of Columbus went into its sixth day in the Wyandot county common pleas court.

The trial reopened at 10 a. m. today after a recess Friday afternoon. Court officials expected the case to go to the jury late today or tomorrow.

State's attorneys have argued that Currier gave false information to Wyandot county residents attempting to buy from them stock in the Fidelity Building Loan and Savings Co., representing the stock at less than its true value. The defense maintains the 16 2/3 per cent Currier offered for the stock represents fair price.

Since the trial opened last Monday nearly 30 witnesses have been examined, including Carey residents from whom Currier attempted to buy the stock, state examiners who checked the accounts of the Fidelity company and character witnesses for the defense.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I GAVE Olga a reassuring smile at her question, one I hoped would lighten her spirits. "I would not worry about Mary if I were in your place," I told her. "She is the most volatile of creatures, and nothing, neither elation or chagrin, lasts very long with her. Moreover, she has that retentive faculty, being able to laugh at herself. I think, when she looks back at this luncheon, she will be able to smile at the clever way in which Olina has scored."

Oiga's beautiful brows were suddenly contracted.

"That is what I do not like about this whole business," she said; "that my daughter is playing a game. I do not understand her."

"If you ask me," I said, "I think she is perfectly justified in flaunting her triumph in front of her stepbrother's wife. After all, Mary did flirt atrociously with Georges. You and I know that, and we also know that it was an innocent flirtation. But it aroused Noel to murderous madness, and caused Olina great unhappiness. Personally, I feel that Olina is entitled to say that she can act out of flaunting that ring."

Her eyebrows were still contracted.

May End Friendship

"I do not like it," she said again. "And I am afraid this will mean the end of the friendship between Mary and Olina."

"I think you're wrong on that point," I said, with more optimism than I felt. "In the first place, if Olina is a bit flaunting today—that's as good a word as any—and I have to see her performance before I believe it—she no doubt will bitterly repent her action later on. And as Mary will be forewarned by me to act as if nothing whatever had happened, there will be no reason why the two girls cannot gradually swing back to their former relations."

"I hope you're right," she said, rising, "and I hope my poor girl isn't headed for life-long unhappiness with that handsome scamp."

"I have something to tell you, Olga," I said, pushing her gently back into her chair, "which, I think, may ease your mind a bit on that score."

Looked at Watch

She looked at her beautiful jeweled wrist watch uneasily. "I do not know how long Phillip can keep Olina incommunicado in the library," she said, "and she must not know he have left the apartment."

"True, Phillip," I said, with a remembrance of some of his little ways in dealing with delicate diplomatic situations.

"I shall," she said.

Then a smile quickened the corners of her mouth.

"Why don't you ask me how he happened to permit me to come through the corridors alone, with nobody to balance the crown on my head?" she quizzed.

I flushed at the glace, but stood my ground stoutly.

"Well, how did it happen?" I asked.

"What is it you say about reading the law, or something like that?" she queried.

"You mean 'laid down the law' to him?" I countered, with inward delight.

"Yes, that is what I did last night," she said. "I told him that on every occasion possible, I wished his escort, but that I must sometimes have the privilege of going through the hotel corridors alone."

"To quote my husband," I said smiling, "I'll bet he kicked like a Texas steer."

"He objected violently," she said, with an answering smile, "but he finally capitulated, and I am here."

"And you won't have to be here much longer," I told her. "What I have to tell you will take but a minute or two."

I leaned forward and looked steadily at her.

"What would you say," I asked, "if I told you that Georges always has been in love with Olina, and that his flirtations with Mary were mostly because he was jealous of Olina with Noel?"

Diarrhea in Infancy

In many parts of this country, diarrhea in infants still ranks too high as a cause of illness and death. Yet, not only have methods of preventing these conditions been discovered but also new aids in their treatment.

Diarrhea, of course, is only a symptom and may be produced in infants in many ways. For example, infections in almost any part of the body, such as in the tonsils or in the ears may be accompanied by diarrhea. Fever is often a cause.

It would appear, according to Dr. Merle J. Carson of North Carolina, that these conditions cause a decrease in the acid in the stomach, thus permitting certain germs to get through the stomach into the bowel and produce inflammation and diarrhea. Diarrhea may also be caused by improper feeding of the baby and by certain medicines. It may be due to contamination of the food by germs, that is, food poisoning. It may come on as a result of infection with dysentery germs, the ameba, typhoid and paratyphoid germs. Then there is a condition known as epidemic diarrhea of the new-born, the exact cause of which has not been discovered. It is thought that it may be due to a virus, that is, an organism so small that it can pass through the openings in a porcelain filter.

Outbreaks of this disorder often occur in newborn nurseries in hospitals. Sometimes, diarrhea may develop because of oversensitivity on the part of the infant to some food which he eats.

Among the important preventive measures against diarrhea in older infants is the protection of the food and milk from contamination and spoilage, giving the infant plenty of fluids at all times, avoiding overfeeding and making sure that all water which is given is safe.

In treating any diarrhea, it is important to give plenty of fluids, to get rid of the cause of the condition, if possible, and to put the baby on the proper feeding schedule. Fluids may be supplied by injection of various solutions into a vein, such as 5 to 10 per cent glucose solution or injection under the skin of salt solutions.

Daily injections of these fluids may be necessary until the diarrhea subsides. In treating the infection within the bowel, the sulfonamide drugs known as sulfa, guanadine and succinylsulfathiazole are valuable. Sulfadiazine as well as sulfathiazole are effective in treating infections elsewhere in the body.

Of course, the treatment for diarrhea should be started prompt-

EMPLOYMENT FALLS HERE IN FEBRUARY

C. of C. Reports Decline from 9,406 to 7,180 in Month.

Industrial employment in Marion dropped to 7,180 in February, a decrease of 2,228 over January figures, according to a monthly report from the Marion Chamber of Commerce.

The report shows January industrial employment figures to be 9,408 and Jan. 1945 figures 8,600. Strikes in Marion's main industries are believed responsible for the decrease.

Relief cases in the city last month, however, were three less than in January. Sixty-eight cases were reported for February, compared to 69 for a year ago. New automobiles, not available to most persons during the war, are beginning to sell in greater numbers, according to the report. Twelve were sold last month, while the January figures were 23,834,022.

Postal receipts and bank debts both showed a decrease in February. Postal receipts for the month totalled $10,122, compared to $21,693 in January. Bank debts were estimated at $20,135,428, while the January figures were

WINTER HELPER

The modern farmer knows his telephone is especially valuable to him in winter. It can spare him hours of dangerous, slow driving to town over icy roads. It saves him time, leaving him free to attend to indoor work which seems to have piled up from summer . . . gives him time to plan for spring planting. We aim as quickly as possible to make the year round benefits of telephone service available to all now waiting for it.

Marion Pilot Hurt in War Training Takes To Air Again

Taking over the controls of an airplane after three years "almost to a day" of wishing and patient waiting until he could go up again was the experience of Richard E. Parish, Marion pilot, last Thursday. And not only did he fly the plane over Marion to see if the city looked "like it did before," but he made a landing which not only proved satisfactory to himself but met with the hearty approval of his passenger and first instructor, A. A. "Doc" Freeman.

Interested in flying as a civilian Parish enlisted in the Air Corps July 20, 1942, and was one of a selected group of men chosen for advanced training as a transport pilot. The training included blind flying and cross-country transport flying in multi-motored planes, and it was on one of his practice flights that he was seriously injured when the instructor attempted a forced landing in a blizzard and struck a cliff at Burlington, Va., on March 6, 1943.

Two other trainees in the plane were injured but not as seriously as Mr. Parish who suffered a broken back and broken legs. Months of rest spent in hospitals at Burlington and later in New York City, plus a firm belief that he would "fly again" resulted in his coming home to take over the management of the Parish Dairy Co. in which he was a partner with his father before he went into service, and which he has owned since the retirement of the latter some time ago.

Mr. Parish was a member of the Marion flight of the Civil Air Patrol and completed secondary training at the Civilian Pilot Training Course school in Mansfield.

Mr. Parish described the flight as being just as "natural as though he had never been away from a plane all these months," and his former instructor's approving comment was "he hasn't forgotten a thing."

The trip was made in a Piper Cub and Mr. Parish's comment on landing was "it seems funny to fly such a small ship."

Mr. and Mrs. Parish live on North Prospect street.

The following subjects will be discussed in subsequent meetings: achievement program and electives, requirements, the Wobelon rank; the den and handicraft in the den; the pack and program planning; cubbing, out-of-doors and special outdoor events; financing and records, reports and registration. Types of handicraft to be demonstrated during the course are crafts—braiding, rope work, leather work, paper craft, whittle craft, and leather tooling.

First meeting of the Morrow County course was held in Mt. Gilead last Thursday at 1:30 p. m. at the court house. Subsequent meetings will be held Thursday at the same time and place.

A den mothers' training course was recently completed in Bucyrus with six mothers receiving course certificates. They are Mrs. Ted M. Marquis, Mrs. Paul L. Houseburg, Mrs. Annie J. Kindig, Mrs. M. A. Wedge, Mrs. G. A. McBeth, and Mrs. Dorothy Barrows.

Ickes Cast in New U. S. Political Role

By THE Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 11.—Former Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes was cast in a new political role today—that of executive chairman of the Independent Citizens' Committee of the Arts Sciences and Professions.

His appointment was disclosed by the organization in a statement issued here last night.

Sculptor Jo Da Da, national chairman of the committee, said in a statement that "we believe that his active participation will prove invaluable in mobilizing the millions of independent voters in the country for united political action."

Ickes said the ICCASP helped elect Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman in 1944 and would continue to carry on its fight for the Roosevelt program or world peace and domestic progress.

ISEN WEIGHS ATE CONTEST

Entry in Minnesota
May Boost G.O.P.
Add to Four.

The Associated Press
WYOMING, March 11 — Senator Stassen's possible entry into the Minnesota Senate may raise to four this year's possible presidential candidates to test their popularity in the year's elections. The former governor of Michigan, Senator Arthur Vandenberg, who is regarded as a possible presidential candidate despite his protests that he has no ambitions along that line, will be battling for reelection.

In New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who carried the G.O.P. standard in 1944, is expected to stand for reelection.

If Stassen decides to take on Vandenberg for the Minnesota nomination, he is expected to draw a sharp issue on foreign policy. The former governor has been preaching collective security doctrines for years. Vandenberg was one of the two senators who voted against Senate ratification of the United Nations charter.

Visioned by Stassen and Bricker would give the Senate Republican side four possible presidential candidates, for Senator Robert Taft of Ohio is not being counted out of the 1948 race.

Control of the Republican senatorial organization now is split between Vandenberg and Taft, for all practical purposes.

Where Stassen and Bricker would fit into this setup remains to be settled when and if they run and are elected.

Something Old Has Been Added

RUNNING through congressional debate on the administration's housing program and given presidential attention in Mr. Truman's latest public statement on the subject is one of the oldest issues in public affairs—the role of lobbyists.

Some members of the house of representatives have asked for protection from lobbyists through the federal bureau of investigation. President Truman has castigated lobbyists as spokesmen for greedy interests. It is as though the clock had been turned back in the early days of the New Deal when lobbying was charged with obstructing the reforms proposed by the Roosevelt administration.

The issue was not settled then, nor is it likely to be settled now. The fact is that the distinction between lobbying and the constitutional right of petition is too slight to outlaw one and recognize the other. Lobbying is practiced under different names, but fundamentally it is always the same—an attempt to influence the judgment of legislators.

If we have heard less in recent years of public utility and farm lobbies, both in the foreground of the news a few years ago, we have heard more of the organized labor lobby, perhaps the most efficient pressure bloc ever based on government. In comparison, the sugar, banking, tariff, railroad, war veterans' and trade association lobbies, all still in existence, are relatively weak. The real estate lobby, which has been made the whipping boy for administration resentment over defeat of details of housing legislation, is only a flash in the pan. It is significant that legislators who have voiced indignation over its efforts to influence legislation have not spoken out against lobbies in general.

William H. Davis Has an Idea

WHEN President Truman pointed out in his Friday news conference that wage questions in the rubber and telephone industries had been settled on a straight collective bargaining basis, he appeared to be supporting an idea advanced frequently by William H. Davis, former chairman of war labor board.

In Chicago the same day, Mr. Davis repeated in an interview that the government should get out of industrial disputes. "Return to collective bargaining on the part of industry and labor and to a completely competitive industry is, in my mind," he said, "much more important than settlement of any temporary labor or price difficulties."

His experience as chairman of WLB gave Mr. Davis a chance to observe at close range the inevitable tendency of management and labor to pass the buck to government whenever government makes itself the third party in bargaining. What he has witnessed since his retirement from government has deepened his conviction that collective bargaining itself is endangered by the intercession of government in any role other than mediator.

The danger was understood fully by Samuel Gompers, organized labor's wisest statesman. Gompers comprehended that government was organized by politicians and that politicians had only one interest in the labor movement—the possibility of its exploitation for political purposes. He warned that labor's ultimate welfare depended on a sound relationship with private enterprise, and that this relationship was not attainable in the United States under the auspices of politics.

Experience is a hard teacher, but if experience is reverting to both labor and management, as partners in private enterprise, that they have most to gain by preserving their independence of the mischievous hand of politics, the present turmoil may be worth the price. There are principles at stake vastly more important than the expediency of the changeable effects of politics.

"Un-American Activities"

WHATEVER spy activities may have been going on in the United States in connection with the atomic bomb secrets are not the legitimate business of the un-American activities committee of the house of representatives.

The report by spokesmen of this committee, which formerly was made notorious by the energy of Martin Dies, that it has discovered a spy ring working between New York and Oak Ridge, Tenn., site of one of the atomic bomb plants, is either a reflection on the properly constituted security agencies of the federal government or a ridiculous assumption of authority. It would be only a little more incongruous if the special committee on conservation of wildlife resources were to announce that it had uncovered a plot to rob the mails.

The committee on un-American activities has an important job to do. It was given permanent status in January 1945 after being opposed bitterly for six years by the Roosevelt administration. During that time it had kept the nation continuously alert to the possibilities and actualities of efforts to undermine the United States with foreign political propaganda. That is the committee's proper function. If foreign spies are nibbling at atomic bomb secrets, that is a job for the bureau of investigation and the military establishments.

Considers Question of Conspiring Against U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Some of the most intelligent people I talked with out around the country called me aside and asked me if I thought the Russians and their worldwide Communists were responsible for our tidal wave of strikes, the ineffectiveness of our government and its failure to move in an orderly way toward reconstruction. They suspected a world revolutionary conspiracy had achieved hidden power here and was pulling strings or breaking them in high places to promote confusion and weakness amongst us.

I told them this:

I do not believe a conspiracy exists in the sense that certain groups of men have met and agreed to destroy this government. That would be old fashioned. Revolutions are not accomplished in that way in this modern day.

No Actual Conspiracy

I do believe a thought-conspiracy exists. Thought control has reached international dimensions through many modern devices, visible and invisible, by open propaganda but also by secret influence. Officials in public office are more often the tools of powerful political forces outside government than the directors of thought which they appear to be in public announcements.

J. CAESAR PETRILLO TO FACE THE MUSIC?

Congress is finally getting around to doing something about J. Caesar Petrillo.

Petrillo? Petrillo is the John L. Lewis of the Paa Alley.

Some musclemen play by instinct—some by music, some by ear. All play by courtesy of J. Caesar Petrillo.

Thus Mr. Petrillo has become the greatest worry of radio since the elimination of static.

Of course, radio isn't the only field where Petrillo is considered a menace. The nation's hardware men aren't all enthusiastic over reports that he intends to make every customer who buys a saw sign an affidavit saying it's not to be used for musical purposes.

I don't know whether this anti-Petrillo bill is administration legislation or not. But it came after someone suggested that Truman could be forced to hire a standby when he plays the Missouri Waltz on the White House piano.

Incidentally, regardless of what you think of Petrillo, this you must admit: He was the first to realize the possibilities of the feithibad as a musical instrument.

Perilous Playthings

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—The "arsenal of democracy" already is or rapidly is becoming the arsenal for what easily could be the greatest crime wave this country ever has known.

Manufacturers of lethal weapons are making no contribution whatever to this arsenal. It's coming from souvenirs—deadly weapons from the world's battle front snatched into this country by GIs and officers for collections.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover wants that "hundreds of thousands of such weapons" already are cached in the United States.

The armed services long ago took cognizance of the danger, even to the extent of developing the "inspectoroscope"—an X-ray machine that examines all packages and luggage for contraband, especially weapons.

Studies Situation

The Marine Corps magazine Leatherneck has studied the situation and reported it in an article titled "Mysterious Menace."

Police chiefs of major cities have placed it No 1 on their problem agenda and recently took home with them from a meeting in Washington Director Hoover's outlines for a scrap drive to help ward off the danger.

Attorney General Tom Clark recently asserted that an "orgy of crime" already is sweeping the country, with a 12.3 per cent overall increase in serious crimes last year over 1944; but with a 23.9 per cent increase in robberies and a 17.3 per cent increase in burglaries—in which deadly weapons generally are used.

Leatherneck indulges in what some may laugh off as a little crime fantasy—the blasting of money-carrying armored trucks with a bazooka. Don't think the armored truck companies have laughed it off, FBI officials here tell me that worried questions already have been put to them by some of these companies.

J. Edgar Hoover doesn't laugh it off either. Bacoco undoubtedly has been smuggled into private homes as souvenirs. And Hoover and his boys remember the Brady-Shafer gang.

In the park of a small Indiana town not so many years ago, thieves stole a World War I machine gun. Some time later, the FBI, after a gun battle in Bangor, Me., captured the Brady-Shafer gang. In their arsenal was that machine gun.

Resents GI Blame

Hoover resents the libel placed on the doorstep of ex-service men that the postwar crime wave will be due to them. He's convinced that the veteran generally is a better citizen than when he

THAT'S A GOOD QUESTION

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, March 11, 1936.

Women Democratic leaders in Cleveland were indignant over "false and outrageous" rumors that a lecture scheduled by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in that city would be boycotted. Mrs. Roosevelt, in a speech delivered at Toledo the preceding night on "The Way to Peace," said: "When nations recognize that no one of them can prosper alone, a great step will have been taken toward eliminating war."

Ohio's dry forces opened a three-phase program in Columbus, embracing education, agitation and the vote in their renewed battle against liquor.

Installation ceremonies, and a banquet launched Marion's newest sorority, Iota Alpha chapter, Pi Omicron national sorority, at Hotel Hurling. Officers were Mrs. Frances Long, president; Miss Marie Hammer, vice president; Miss Elizabeth Pace, recording secretary; Miss Enid Little, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Florence Dixon, treasurer.

Miss Margaret McAfee of Nelson street was hostess to the Y. U. N. club at which time Miss Helen Smith of 342 Uncapher avenue announced her approaching marriage to Eldon Davis of Mt. Gilroy.

More than $300 worth of beans for use at the City Hospital had been purchased by the Woman's Board of the Marion City hospital. It was reported at a meeting of the members held at the home of Misses May Ella and Emma O'Brien on East Church street.

Twenty Years Ago

It was Thursday, March 11, 1926.

James S. Madden of Columbus, married and the father of three children, took the witness stand in his own defense in trial in Marion county common pleas court on a charge of robbery in connection with the holding of two C. D. & M. messengers. He denied having any part in the robbery.

The political commission of the League of Nations assembly adopted the report of a sub-committee declaring Germany eligible for membership in the league.

Mayor Earl Hazen started plans for Marion's "cleanup" week in April.

Twenty Years Ago

It was Thursday, March 11, 1916.

Miss Rachel McAfee, physical education instructor at Harding High school, announced that Miss Virginia Knapp, a senior, would be crowned May queen in the annual May day program of the school May 5 at the Grand theater.

Will Rogers appeared before an audience that filled The Star auditorium to capacity. His appearance was sponsored by the Marion Lecture-Recital club. Announcing that he came with "charity to none and malice to all" he covered a wide range of subjects including numerous comments on conditions in Marion. He closed by telling his audience he would be glad to come back the following year and that no one need to worry about his having the same jokes, "cause when congress gets busy again, I'll have a whole new act," he said.

Selective Chemical

A large paint company, producer of many related and unrelated chemicals, now seems to have turned out a material that will make a great hit with keepers of golf greens and perhaps with amateur gardeners. It is a chemical that is reported to go right after such leafy intruders as dandelions, even to destroying their roots. You can't use it carelessly, and it may be bad for clover and other desirable plants.—O.S.U. Science and Appliance.

CARLOS BULOSAN

CARLOS BULOSAN author of "America Is In the Heart," was born on the island of Luzon and came to this country to find the land and people that seemed so beautiful when viewed from the thousands of miles away. The reality was ugly; the miserable victim of social and economic prejudice, he was taken for a long ride—kept out of a job, starved, even beaten. America is still in his heart, he says in this autobiography. How a man could think the best of us, now that he knows the worst, is a triumph of faith, hope and charity.

"I knew that no man could destroy my faith in America—ever," thus Filipino writer declares earnestly in the last sentence of a book that amounts in sum and substance to an appalling indictment of this country.

Bulosan was born into a family which aspired to the bright, happy world of tomorrow. For the sake of one brother's education, the peasant father sacrificed but by bit all the land which supported him, his wife and children, yet that wasn't enough. One after another the boys Amado, Mariano, Carlos, came to America with their fond dreams.

They live precariously up and down the west coast, where they encountered the most virulent kind of prejudice. This was the land of freedom and opportunity. They enjoyed the freedom and opportunity to work for starvation wages picking peas and grapes, to live in cities in sections where pimps, gamblers and prostitutes didn't object to their darker skins, to steal for food, to vie with Mexicans, Japanese and Chinese for the jobs which paid the least, to be beaten up by white vigilantes.

Carlos is self-educated, which he himself made it difficult to do in recent years of rubber that has been compounded so as to be electrically conductive. A proper amount of conductivity, and of course the proper amount of resistance, enables such rubber to be made into snug-fitting heaters for hydraulic lines and other vulnerable spots on high-flying planes. The probable uses, from providing heat in stratosphere to brooding chicks, are numerous.

"America Is In the Heart" is the other side of the picture. It is dark and tragic. It lacks, too, it should be added, the literary appeal of earlier works. But it is so stupendous a catalogue of injustice and deprivation and misery that I don't see how he retained the vision and the heroic detachment that leave him confident of our country.

He cherishes a deeper love for America than a lot of Americans feel; we may wonder how many of us would love our native land if we had this stranger's reasons for hating it.

Will swap my collection of swords, daggers, roller skates, opium pipes for small electric organ, music box, etc. (N.Y.) F.B.I.

Careful mister! Your assumption that the labor-management crisis is over may be premature.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: This has been a dull day.

Cloudy and spilling rain. Your aunt had a meeting this afternoon and I was lame, so I closed up the store and thumbed a ride into town.

I wasn't any business anyway. Fact of the matter is—that I wouldn't want to noise around the store doesn't really pay for itself. But it's a good way to keep in touch with what's going on, and it gives me something to do. The only thing that pays for itself is the service station and I don't aim to do anything out there anymore, unless one of the boys gets sick and wants me.

So, as I say, I went into town. I had a hour to spend some money foolishly, buying in—I want but don't need. That is as close as I can come to a barge. The best place to stage a fight is hardware stores. With some people it's drinking, or buying books, or maybe clothes with women, of course, it's mostly hats and the like. With me it's hardware, little hard-ware. I never really had money enough to go into big hardware. Wish I did.

I'd buy a garden tractor and all the lawn mowers and a wide assortment of power tools to play with. It would be no trouble at all to blow in a couple thousand dollars on it.

Or 15 dollars picking up widgets I can use.

Home in my pocket.

For example today I accumulated a nickel-plated oil can that works with a tap.

and is as cute as a button, a patent clothesline holder, a set of chromatic letters, a set of markers for screens and storm windows, a patent whirling to clean out drains with wire pressure, another patent doobidoo to take off leaky faucets, a corkscrew gun and five pairs of assorted screws and nails that no doubt be bought over by the boys when I'm gone.

I looked at new refrigerators, stoves and freezers and let a salesman give me his sales pitch on a lighting system, not bothering to tell him we live on a power line. I also felt the fishing tackle and showed a casual interest in pistols and hunting knives, though I have a lot of leathery jackets, a corkscrew gun and five pairs of assorted screws and nails that no doubt be bought over by the boys when I'm gone.

I brought my boat home, put it away in the tool shed and when my aunt got back I was tending store with both hands. Nobody was

D: "Clem and I were wonderin' what I thought of that new movie about the 'emphatic alcoholics.' Judge, understand you did it before we did."

D: "JUDGE: "Well... it's true most of never see a case as extreme as that in life because they are so few and far between. But it does point out one thing... that alcoholics are abnormal people and we got to change our ideas about how to help them."

EM: "In what way, Judge?"

D: "JUDGE: "We've got to realize that excessive drinkers are suffering from more than a craving for alcohol. According to psychiatrist and medical men at one of our great universities, the alcoholic is a sick person. The study of hundreds of cases shows he is suffering from some physical, social or emotional condition... just as in the case of that poor chap in the picture. FIGHT LOOMING AT WORLD BANK PARLEY

By The Associated Press
SAVANNAH, March 11.—The boards of governors of the world bank and fund headed into their first meeting today, and some clue was expected to emerge as to a decision on a British-vs-American struggle over a site for the two institutions.

Secretary of the Treasury Vinton, head of the United States delegation, and temporary chairman of the international monetary conference, told reporters he expected to "have something to say" on the site issue after the board's meeting.

The American delegation is boasting Washington while Britain and Canada are leaders of a campaign for New York. A swing toward Washington developed among other delegations yesterday after the U. S. group, in a caucus, laid out a firmly banking policy in favor of the capital.

The British object to locating the twin institutions in the shadow of the U. S. government and congress. They hold that New York as a center of world finance, is the logical choice. The Americans argue that such a decision would bring the fund and bank too close to the influence of big banking houses, and that they should be close to the American seat of government, where many of the major decisions would ultimately be made.

The meetings of the boards of governors will be closed to the press, Secretary Vinton said, because "it is a business meeting, like the meeting of the board of directors of any bank."

STRANGE INTERLUDE.

Rarely, if ever, has the camera recorded a brief chapter from a strange psychological "case history." Here, with back turned to the lens—because his doctors will not allow photographs—is the portrait of a man in search of his memory. Known to scientists as the "case of Horace F." and to news dispatch readers as "the mad musician," or "Maestro X," he is shown in Detroit applauding as he begins to recognize compositions once familiar to him. Recently he gave a piano concert for music critics, but it was noted that unless someone turned the pages, the musician would keep repeating the same refrain. Sunday night Maestro X played brilliantly on "We the People" over a nationwide radio chain.

previously had protested to Moscow over the situation in Iran. The Moscow radio, meanwhile, declared what it described as "irresponsible talk" in the United States, and said it appeared that certain people there were attempting "to plant the seeds of a new world war; to poison the public mind against the Soviet Union."

The broadcast declared Soviet-American friendship was essential to world peace and asked why the United States should "defend British colonial policy."

Chinese Troops Battle at Mukden

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, March 11—Chinese Nationalist and Communist reinforcements today were reported moving to Mukden, where the Central news agency said, the rival forces were battling after sudden withdrawal of Soviet troops.

Chinese press dispatches said that the Communists, heavily outnumbering Nationalist troops in the city of 2,000,000—Manchuria's largest—had occupied the power plant and northern district.

Other reports said the Central government had proclaimed martial law in the skeleton city, whose once-great industrial plants had been picked clean by the Russians.

The press reports declared that elements of four Nationalist armies were marching to Mukden and that a Communist reinforcement was moving in from the north.

The suddenness of the Soviet withdrawal was blamed for the "serious" street-fighting in Mukden. Dispatches said the Nationalists did not have sufficient troops to cope with the situation.

They said that for the past few days Soviet authorities in Manchuria, from Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, Soviet commander, to junior officers, had been inaccessible to Nationalist officials.

The Central news agency did not interpret the withdrawal from Mukden as a general Russian evacuation of Manchuria. The agency declared that six trains had unloaded troops, tanks, artillery, and automobiles at Changchun, Manchuria capital.

Yet another report said Changchun was full of rumors that Soviet forces intended to quit the city.

Russian Press Hits Churchill Proposal

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 11—The Moscow newspaper Pravda accused Winston Churchill today of trying to incite war against the Soviet Union and declared that if his ideas for a British-American military alliance were put into effect it would mean the death of the United Nations.

The Communist party organ, breaking Russian editorial silence on the former British prime minister's speech last week at Fulton, Mo., said Churchill had attempted to "intimidate the whole world with the horrors of Soviet expansion" and its alleged menace to "true democracy in the west."

"In reality," declared the editorial, which was broadcast by the Moscow radio, "Churchill tried to impress the idea that a new war is inevitable. More than that, he incited people to this war and, namely, to war against the Soviet Union."

Churchill, Pravda asserted, "shattered the USSR by saying that Soviet Russia wants the fruits of war and unlimited expansion of her strength and her doctrine."

"He adds quite openly that this (fraternal) military alliance must be directed against the USSR, but the military alliance must be directed against the USSR, but the military alliance of two of the partners of the coalition against the third means the end of the coalition of the three great powers, which was established in the course of the second World war."

Cat Came to Dinner, Stayed To Be Critic

By The Associated Press

HAYS, Kan.—A pink tomcat who came to dinner at a local movie house three years ago is now developing a reputation as a critic of Hollywood's super-sensational productions.

For a while Cat (that's his only name so far) was kept busy purring the mouse problem under control. Then, as time began to hang heavy, Cat discussed his critical proclivities.

Now, according to Charles Reed, the manager, Cat has developed the practice of sitting calmly in the rear of the auditorium as the crowd comes in for a show. As soon as the first scene flashes on the screen, the tom deliberately strolls down the aisle, tail erect, and mounts the steps at one side of the stage and settles on his haunches.

If the movie pleases him, he remains for the show, but if the presentation pallis on the film's flesh sensibilities, Cat gets up and walks away like an admonishing finger, walks across the stage, down the steps on the other side and out into the lobby where he curls up for a nap.

2 HIT-RUN DRIVERS ARRESTED BY POLICE

One Apprehended After His Car Injures Pedestrian.

Police made two arrests in hit-run driving cases Saturday night shortly after the accidents occurred. Apprehended were George R. Longacre, 27, of 462 Silver street and Norman Snyder, 18, of Lawrence avenue.

Both pleaded guilty to charges of leaving the scene of an accident in municipal court this morning. Longacre was fined $200 and costs, was sentenced to 30 days in the Columbus workhouse, and suffered suspension of his driving rights for three years. Snyder was fined $50 and costs and his driving license was suspended three years.

Longacre admitted running down Robert W. Roberts, of 123 South Grand street at State and Center streets Sunday at 1:25 a. m. and continuing without stopping. Police received a call from guards at the Engineer Depot shortly afterward that they had found Longacre sleeping in a car on the depot grounds. Later they said he abandoned the car and left in a taxi. When officers got the car they found its license tallied with the number given by witnesses of the accident. The left side of the bumper showed contact marks, police said. They apprehended Longacre who admitted his part in the accident.

Roberts suffered cuts about the left side of the head. He was taken to City hospital by ambulance and was released this morning. Ed McKinney, of 266 Silver street, who was with Roberts, was also knocked down but was not injured.

Snyder pleaded guilty to knocking over a fire plug at Kensington place and East Church street late Saturday night. Police said at the time the accident occurred he was on an errand to get ball for a companion, Roy L. Davis, 20, of Marengo who had been arrested earlier in the evening on a charge of reckless driving. He did not report the accident, police said, but it was reported to them from another source. When Snyder came back to the police station to bail out Davis, police questioned him about newly done damage to the car and he admitted knocking over the fire plug. Davis pleaded guilty in municipal court today to a charge of reckless driving and was fined $10 and costs.
